PCA Club Racing joins JX2 and Pirelli in coronating the inaugural Champion of the Triple Crown Championship

Columbia MD— Entering the final round of the JX2/Pirelli Triple Crown Championship at Elkhart Lake, Wisconsin's Road America, Spencer Cox and John Uglum led the front-runners after Watkins Glen. Harold Petit Jr. held a small lead over Charles Belluardo for the 3rd podium position. But with Spencer Cox, John Uglum and Charles Belluardo absent for the final round of the challenge, there was the opportunity for others to earn points and make up ground in the quest for the inaugural JX2/Pirelli Triple Crown Championship podium, special Triple Crown series trophy and custom JX2 Pirelli Champion's jacket and accolades that come with being the Champion.

Geoff Isringhausen quickly took advantage of Cox's absence by earning enough points over the weekend's competition to secure the JX2 Pirelli Triple Crown Championship over Harold Petit Jr, who was the model of consistency throughout the Championship hunt. Keeping it in the family, Geoff Isringhausen Jr. also impressed, earning enough points to finish just off the podium, behind the absent Spencer Cox who finished third in the Triple Crown Championship series.

The JX2 Pirelli Triple Crown Championship showcases the performance of the GTB1 class, which heavily features the Cayman model. Noticing the lap times and speed potential within the class, JX2 has provided a platform for recognition for those drivers and their vehicles. In doing so they have upped their level of commitment to PCA Club Racing by offering expanded contingency offerings for series participants, a custom jacket featuring the series logo for the champion and a special trophy. PCA Club Racing is grateful to have partners such as JX2 and Pirelli to join us in supportive endeavors that highlight the accomplishments of our racers, and hopes to expand recognition efforts to additional classes in the future.

PCA Club Racing is fueled by racers and volunteers.
